

Diztinct, Inc. Client Grapevinehill Wins Best Looking Store Award from eBay

Diztinct's eBay Store design for Grapevinehill wins the Best Looking Store 2006 Award from eBay. Diztinct, a northern NJ-based company that designs professional web sites and eBay Stores, outlines the details of the contest and the vision of the winning store design.

North Haledon, NJ (PRWEB) June 15, 2006 -- Diztinct is pleased to announce that its client Grapevinehill, the number one web store for discount shoes, boots and sandals has been awarded "Best Looking Store" by eBay (Nasdaq: EBAY) in their 2006 Best in Stores contest. The winning eBay Store was designed by Diztinct, Inc, a northern NJ-based Internet marketing and design firm who offer one-of-a-kind web site and eBay Store designs to suit its clients' needs. The artistic skills and eBay expertise of the Diztinct staff help maximize a company's accessibility and allure. The award will be presented this week at the annual eBay Live conference in Las Vegas, NV.

"I am very pleased to know that our web site design enabled Grapevinehill to receive eBay's Best Looking Store award because it proves that our goal to combine our clients' desires with our best efforts is working," said Jeff Dyksen, president of Diztinct. "Diztinct's finished product reflects a client's business personality and proves to be an effective marketing tool on eBay and on the Internet."

The annual contest was open to all registered eBay Stores. The stores were judged for creativity, use of best practices, such as linking and storefront features, and presentation. EBay Stores were nominated in March 2006 and an expert panel selected the four finalists in three categories: Best Looking Store, Best Shopping Experience and Best eBay Store Marketing. From April 12 through 30, 2006, eBay members voted on the finalists in each category, with the winning stores determined by the most votes received.
